

ENGLISH

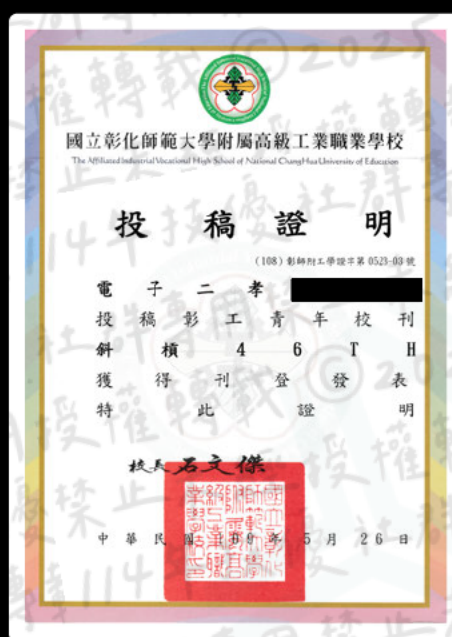

School magazines, contests, and events

I was one of the students in the English honors class. One of the key differences compared to an ordinary class is the number of events we took part in. I submitted two articles to our school magazines, in "文青 45th" and "斜槓 46th" respectively.

To challenge myself, I signed up for both English composition and recitation contests. After practicing with friends and teachers diligently, I was awarded first place in composition and third place in recitation.

▲ Submission proof for the 45th issue

▲ Submission proof for the 46th issue

▲ 2nd place in a school English contest

▲ Certificate for participation in Write for Rights

Our class often emphasized human rights. We made presentations on various controversial topics like abortion and the Uyghurs (維吾爾族) every term. To put words into action, we joined the Write for Rights campaign, where we wrote letters and petition signatures to help free people from unjust imprisonment.